

What role does the natural world play in Richard Connell's "The Most Dangerous Game" and in Saki's "The Interlopers"? And, more important, why does this matter? What does nature help to reveal about human nature? Write an essay in which you examine nature in relation to our two recent stories.

- I. Introduction
 - a. Universal Statement
 - b. Universal Statement
 - c. Narrowing Statement
 - d. Narrowing Statement that introduces text or texts
 - e. Thesis Statement
- II. Body 1
 - a. Topic Sentence that clearly introduces TAG and your main point
 - b. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - c. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - d. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - e. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - f. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - g. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - h. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - i. Concluding statement that ties up your argument
- III. Body 2
 - a. Topic Sentence that clearly introduces TAG and your main point (TRANSITION)
 - b. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - c. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - d. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - e. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - f. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - g. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - h. Evidence | Support | Analysis
 - i. Concluding statement that ties up your argument
- IV. Conclusion
 - a. Restate your thesis in different words
 - b. Broadening statement that revisits your texts
 - c. Broadening statement that revisits your texts
 - d. Clincher