

Cry 'Havoc' and redeem your dishonorable grade!

Gentle Romans, you have but one chance to fix that which has gone wrong. You must travel to the English office during the week of June 11-15 and recite lines from The Tragedy of Julius Caesar. You can earn up to one point per line, but your lines must be perfect and your performance must demonstrate a keen understanding of the character. In other words, don't just say it, be it. Minimum of 6 lines required.

If you earned 45 or higher, then you can raise your grade to 49.

If you earned 40-44, then you can raise your grade to 47.

If you earned between 30-39, then you can raise your grade to 45.

If you earned below 30, then you can raise your grade to 42.

There will be no further negotiation on this topic. Exceptional acting, props, and/or costumes will only help you. I have a particular love of the following speeches: "Cry 'Havoc,'" "Northern Star," and "Friends, Roman, Countrymen." All hail, Liz Anderson, the noblest Roman of them all who received a perfect grade. She will be rewarded with extra points.
