O, mickle is the powerful grace that lies
In herbs, plants, stones, and their true qualities:
For nought so vile that on the earth doth live
But to the earth some special good doth give,
Nor aught so good but strain'd from that fair use _____
Revolts from true birth, stumbling on abuse:
Virtue itself turns vice, being misapplied;
And vice sometimes by action dignified.

A sail, a sail!
Two, two; a shirt and a smock. _____

Deceit should dwell in such a gorgeous palace. _____

O brawling love; o loving hate _____

What here shall miss our toil shall strive to mend _____

Speak to my gossip Venus one fair word
One nicknamed for her purblind son and heir

Come, night; come, Romeo.

But soft! What light through yonder window breaks?
It is the east, and Juliet is the sun.

Well, what was yours?
That dreamers often lie
In bed asleep, in bed asleep while they do dream things true.

A plague on both your houses.

Good pilgrim, you do wrong your hand too much,
Which mannerly devotion shows in this;
For saints have hands that pilgrims' hands do touch,
And palm to palm is holy palmers' kiss.

Arise, fair sun and kill the envious moon.
